OW2 introduces its annual community event OW2con’15 “The Drive for Open Source Governance”

Open Source Software quality and governance will be addressed with a program of world class presentations and one day colocated with the Paris Open Source Summit

Paris, France, September 1, 2015 – OW2, the open source community for infrastructure software introduces its annual conference OW2con’15, November 17-18 in Paris. This annual community event will bring together technology experts, software architects, IT developers, project managers and decision-makers from all around the world. This year's conference will take place in two different locations.

Day one November 17 will take place at Orange Labs, Issy-Les-Moulineaux and will focus on introduction, keynote presentations and a panel on open source software governance and quality.

Day two November 18 will be hosted by the conference “Paris Open Source Summit”, at Les docks de Paris. This new conference is the merge of the previous Solutions Linux and Open World Forum conferences, and ambition to federate the European open source community with quality conferences and business meetings.

OW2 is highly contributing in the program of the Paris Open Source Summit. With OW2 CEO Cédric Thomas being VP International of the new event, OW2 coordinates 4 sessions:

- European Collaborative Innovation : Showcasing multinational EU-funded innovative open source projects.

- Local Government and Open Source : A meet-up or cities and local government using or willing to use open source software in their information systems.

- Open Source Community Summit : A meet-up of open source practitioners with a special theme for this year: Open Source Best Practices.

- Invited Countries : China and Spain will present their involvement towards open source, both in the research and public policies areas.

OW2 and its members can also be visited on the OW2 community booth in the summit's exhibition.

The participation to OW2con’15 is free. The program and details about registration process and sponsorship opportunities will be available soon at: http://www.ow2con.org/.
